

J. Kings ranked among top food service firms

by David Winzelberg

Published: October 13th, 2011

Like

Sign Up to see what your friends like.

Holtsville-based J. Kings Food Service Professionals is now ranked 30th on a list of the top food service distributors in the country, according to the ID Report, an online magazine that covers the industry.

J. Kings had an annual sales volume of $187 million and has continually ranked in the top 50 since its debut on the list in 2000, according to a company statement.

Of the top 50 companies that were ranked, J. Kings placed second in biggest sales increase by percentage, with a 14 percent sales increase in 2010 over 2009.

Founder and Chief Customer Officer John King attributed the year's success to its innovative customer service, its buy-local initiatives, and product development focus.

J. Kings is New York's largest independent food distributor, servicing over 2,400 accounts.

More breaking news

- LI September home sales, prices down
- Oyster Bay faces lawsuit over hiring switch
- Hamptons fest film looks at LI unemployment
- Alec Baldwin setting up post-'30 Rock' life
- DA expanding retesting at Nassau crime lab
- U.S. foreclosure activity edged higher in 3Q
- BlackBerry services come sputtering back
- J. Kings ranked among top food service firms
- Village sued over moratorium

Complete URL: <http://libn.com/2011/10/13/j-kings-ranked-among-top-food-service-firms/>